

DELHI PUBLIC SCHOOL, BOPAL

It was a double celebration at Delhi Public School, Bopal. Students assembled on Saturday to remember Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, one of India's greatest teacher and the country's second President, just ahead of his birthday on September 5. The day is celebrated as Teachers' Day nationally when student's honor and shower appreciation on their gurus for the lessons taught to them. The program started off in the school premises with the pious ritual of lighting the lamp.

Principal Surender P. Sachdeva delivered a speech on the occasion to inspire the students. He highlighted the ideal qualities of a teacher and their contribution in shaping the lives of students with ample guidance. The bond resulting out of this is eternal and satisfying, he said.

It was time next for students to lay bare their feelings for their mentors. Students touched a chord in an emotional speech, speaking reverently about the teachers.

Students from Class VI to VIII performed an exemplary dance. This was followed by a skit that showcased a teachers' influence in one's life. Class XI and XII performed an energetic and marvelous dance dedicated to Lord Ganesha. The day was wrapped up with an award function that acknowledged the efforts made by all teachers of Delhi Public School, Bopal through the current academic year. Trophies were given away by the key members of the management with a larger objective to boost the morale of every teacher and salute their passion and purpose and help the larger cause of achieving academic excellence. The official school band played next for a perfect note to end on.
